Sandcastles

Walking along the beach, you will usually see a sandcastle. Chances are you will glance at it quickly and dismiss it from your thoughts as the work of just another beachgoer. All too often we take for granted these works of art which grace our beaches. We fail to realize the work and experience required to build a good sandcastle.
Life is a sandcastle. The castle starts off very small, but we quickly begin to build on it. Section by section, we gather up the sands of experience to make our sandcastle more complete; we make our lives more complete. As we live, experience and learn, we add on to our castle, and we grow

as it grows.
Occasionally, however, there comes a time when we tire of building, and the tide comes in. We have to face a set- back, and our sandcastle is washed away by the water. We cannot be discouraged, though. We must wait for the tide to pass and, with the experience we gained from the castle before, begin building anew.
As you pass from this stage of your life to the next, build the next section of your castle with pride. And when the tide comes in, be ready to get back on the beach and begin building once again.

"There's a doctor in the house!"

When we came into Barnstable High School, the class of 1993 was known as, well, not one of the best classes in recent history. Yet, with all your help, hard work and dedication we were molded into respectable young people. Many of us will have fond memories of fun times and friends. And most of us will also remember the friendly face of someone who was always there to help. Thank you, Dr. Vech . . .

To my "Nice" Naughty Ninety Three-ers who became Senior Saints overnight:

We are all survivors and have been through a lot together. May your life ahead be filled with fond memories of our four years together at B.H.S. Keep in touch with each other, because these are the best years of your lives. Enjoy them in good health and happiness.

Fondly,
Dr. Vech

Two Longtime Teachers Call It Quits

Most of us think of Dick Norman, who retired from teaching this year, as the "nice" gym teacher, but he did a lot more for Barnstable High School than teach gym. After graduating from Fairhaven High School, where he played football, and was All-State in basketball and baseball, he went on to the University of Massachusetts. At UMass he was also a great athlete, playing for their basketball team, and as a utility man on their NCAA tournament baseball team, along with playing the trombone in the band. He entered the army after graduating, and then went on to teach and coach basketball at Old Rochester Regional High School.

Mr. Norman began here at Barnstable in 1966. In 1968 he took over as our athletic director and made our school grow. He spoke of Barnstable as a "sleeping giant." He was a quiet man willing to stay in the background when our teams were on top, letting the coaches and players take all the credit, as well as being a great public relations man with other high schools. While he was AD, he was also an assistant track coach. He also coached everything from basketball and baseball to hockey and boys tennis, a team which he took to the South Sectional Semifinals last year. Mr. Norman was also a great influence in the AFS program here.

"Mr. Norman was a respectful, kind human being who treated everyone the same," was how Mr. Graves, his fellow teacher and friend remembered him when asked.

"We'll miss him," is what AD Mr. Goveia, who followed Mr. Norman, said of him. Although Mr. Norman is still going to coach the boys tennis team, we will miss him too. Good luck, and thank you, Mr. Norman!

After twenty-four years at Barnstable High School, Mr. Wingren has retired from his position as a teacher, coach, and resident humorist. "Mr. Wingren is a very intelligent and extremely interesting man with a twinkle in his eye and a devil in his heart," said Vice Principal Mr. Graves.

A graduate of the University of Maine, Mr. Wingren went on to coach football and start the first ski club at Barnstable. An ex-boxer, sea captain and inventor, Mr. Wingren brought with him many great tales that will be remembered by many.

Dean James Ruberti contended that "Mr. Wingren is one of America's greatest living inventors — yea, if not one of the world's — with reference especially to the famed Sideburn Leveler (with shim). A videotape is available of this as well as a pictorial representation in my office." He went on to say, "Out of deference to Mr. Wingren's greatness, I simply remark on his Resistance-Operated, Electrically-Fired Hot Dog Cooker. This man will be truly missed."

"Mr. Wingren has a very funny dry wit, and you have to get his jokes in order for them to be funny," said English teacher Ms. Bendiksen. "A humane individual, Mr. Wingren possesses the gifts of wit and sensitivity, and I will miss him."

Mr. Wingren was a great teacher who will be remembered for a long time. All the teachers and students at B.H.S. wish him the best of luck and we all say, "Thank you, Mr. Wingren!"

Unsung Heroes of the Class of 1993

High school is a unique place, where people from a variety of backgrounds come together to form a single class. Each person contributes something different to his or her class and helps to make school more like a community than just a place to learn. As you look back on your high school experience, you will no doubt remember many people who have helped to make the Class of 1993 unique and memorable.

Many of your classmates will be remembered as the focus of athletic or academic acclaim, and deservedly so. But there are always those people who do not fit into such neat little categories. As a result, they often do not receive the praise that is due them. The Class of 1993 is full of these "unsung heroes" who do extraordinary things.

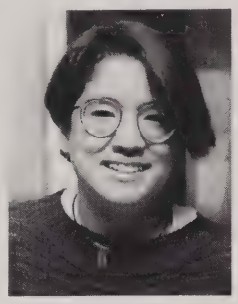
Take Ian Pfenning and Matt Dumas. Both have moved through the ranks of Boy Scouts for 11 years and have achieved the highest honor, Eagle Scout, a feat that requires great focus and dedication.

"I like the challenges of Scouting," says Ian, an outdoorsman by nature. "They introduce the young Scouts to anything from art to rock climbing. Basically it turns you into a well-rounded person." And well-rounded Ian is. When he is not travelling to Tennessee for a Boy Scout national conference or hiking on the Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico, Ian is deeply involved in Drama Club, cross country and track.

Ian Pfenning

"It has just been fun to go camping with my friends, cook our own food, hike, and deal with the weather and nature," explains Matt about his experiences with Scouting. Scouting took Matt to Washington D.C. as a Massachusetts representative to the National Jamboree. There he carried the state flag on the same stage with President Bush. Here in Barnstable, Matt plays the bass drum in the high school band and pursues a unique hobby, restoring classic cars.

Another well-rounded person, Alison Spencer, will be graduating with our class because she spent last year in Japan with the Rotary Club's exchange program. Alison has become fluent in Japanese, an especially difficult language to learn. Her experiences abroad have prompted her to become active in the Global Awareness Program this year. As Alison is now bilingual, she is able to express the most important lesson she learned in Japan in both Japanese and English. "Kunigara ga chigatemo hitosorezore ni nanikao ataerumono o moteiru," she says. "It's important to accept people no matter what their differences are, because everyone has something to offer."



Alison Spencer

Like Alison's experiences in Japan. Lindsey Close's trip to Russia and the Ukraine this past fall taught her a valuable lesson about people of different cultures. "Living and interacting closely with Russians and Ukrainians just proved to me that people are no different no matter where you go." While in Russia, Lindsey and eight other Americans travelling with the Appalachian Mountain Club were paired with Ukrainian travelling companions. Lindsey spent three weeks hiking, meeting with environmentalists to talk about nuclear power and environmental education, and cleaning up rocket site debris.

Brenna Coughlin spent her junior year working on her ballet skills at the Lake Erie Ballet Company in Pennsylvania while attending school at Villa Maria Academy. More important than the advancements she made in her dancing were the discoveries she made about herself and her career path while away from Barnstable. "I went to Pennsylvania to improve my dancing," says Brenna, "and I found out what I really wanted to do. Now I don't want to make a career out of ballet, but if I had never gone, I would never have known that."

Brenna Coughlin

Another hardworking dancer, Maggie Carchrie-Feltus, has studied Scottish Highland dancing for many years. For three months last year, Maggie underwent extensive teacher training in Boston to earn her teaching certificate from the British Association of Teachers of Dance. Maggie now teaches dance so she can share the enjoyment of her art with others. According to Maggie, "Through my dancing I have been shown what it is to work very hard for something you love and to become disciplined."

"I like the challenges of Scouting. They introduce the young Scouts to anything from art to rock climbing. Basically it turns you into a well-rounded person."
— Ian Pfenning

"It's important to accept people no matter what their differences are, because everyone has something to offer."
— Alison Spencer

"Phu is naturally gifted. Some people who have great skill put themselves up on a pedestal, but Phu is not like that at all. He's always willing to help others."
— Carl Lopes

In a different area of the arts, Jared McMurray puts all of his energy into what he hopes will someday be his profession. "A lot of people think it's kind of strange that I play and really love classical music," says Jared, "but in the long run I hope it really pays off." Three to four hours out of Jared's day are spent practicing concert piano. So far his determination has paid off. He plays in concerts at the Bourne Methodist Church and recitals at Beebe Woods, a concert hall in Falmouth run by the Cape Cod Conservatory. Jared's musical talent also gets him work playing back-up at the Tara Hyannis Hotel and the Regatta restaurant. It is hard to believe that in his free time, Jared chooses to continue playing piano for the high school jazz band.

Maggie Carchrie-Feltus

Some people do not even need to leave the halls of Barnstable High School to do the extraordinary. They deserve credit for showing pride and determination in their everyday activities.

Artistically, Phu Quoc Phu is the shining star of the senior class. Several of his paintings have been shown in exhibits at the Cape Cod Museum of Fine Arts and the Heritage Plantation gallery. He has won a Scholastic Art Award and currently has a piece in the permanent exhibition at the Centerville-Osterville-Marstons Mills Fire Department. Only someone who knows Phu as well as Art Department Chairman Carl Lopes can accurately describe him. "I think he's one of the best students I've ever had," says Mr. Lopes, "not only for his art, but also because he is helpful . . . almost like an apprentice to me.

"The only good life is the one that you are honest to yourself and not to the wishes of others."

The cycle of endings and beginnings is constant. Sometimes it is hard to say goodbye to familiar things.Other times, it is a challenge to seek new experiences. How each person reacts to it depends on the individual. No matter what the feelings are, the cycle continues. Till a new cycle is created.

The tide goes out pulling and thrusting the sparkling shells:
Some are tossed onto the bare beach to wait,
But most are swept away in the waves,
Far off to adventure.

The tide comes in and sweeps the noble castles,
Tumbling them to the ground.
In exchange it brings smooth rare stones
To lay upon the sand.

But —
After the tide goes out,
And before it returns,
There is a moment of exhilarating anticipation . . .
A calm before the returning swell of the waves,
A moment of peace mixed with the anxiety of being caught
Between the tides.

Fortune emphasizes respect

In September of 1992, Barnstable High School welcomed a new principal, Mr. Alvin V. Fortune. A thirty year veteran of education, Mr. Fortune arrived with a firm set of educational standards.

When asked to explain his philosophies of education, Mr. Fortune responded, "The overriding theme I've stated all these years and is still with me today is one of respect: developing self respect, a respect of differences in the classroom as well."

What inspired Mr. Fortune to enter the education profession? "There were a lot of people in my world who were good to me, and I knew that. So, when I had the opportunity, I figured that there was something I wanted to give back."

Through fulfilling his duties as principal, Mr. Fortune hopes to make Barnstable High a haven for education and respect. "Each of us has a responsibility to make an atmosphere that's enjoyable. If you couldn't come to school here in the day, where else would you go? So, you make it the best place possible where we all can come and enjoy the time that we spend here."

Asked about areas where Barnstable High School needs to be strengthened, Mr. Fortune said, "What I see here is enormous potential. I see great kids, but I do see some kids who aren't participating. We need to encourage kids to participate and I think that will make a big difference. That is my hope and my dream."

When asked how he hopes to influence the graduating seniors, Mr. Fortune replied, "I think they will have a healthy sense of respect for each other . . . they won't be frightened by differences. They'll be able to interact with anybody . . . wherever they may go in life."

The arrival of a new principal often introduces a period of transition. This year, Barnstable High School has witnessed the rejuvenation of respect and the reinforcement of previously ignored school policies. Remember the "hat controversy" of September?

Local publications reported that students would no longer be permitted to wear hats in the classroom. Students anticipated a rash of stringent rules and restrictions. By mid-September, however, the controversy subsided as students realized that they were still able to wear hats in the cafeteria and during passing time.

Mr. Alvin V. Fortune, Principal

A redistribution of power affects everyone in the scholastic community: students, teachers and faculty as well. During the recent transition, students and staff expressed their opinions about Mr. Fortune and the "respect revival."

Though some students polled were uncertain about the new principal and wary of the reinforced rules, the consensus on Mr. Fortune's policies was favorable. Students and faculty alike agreed that it is our responsibility to create a healthy, agreeable environment at BHS.

Teachers and students are encouraged not to condone verbal abuse and students are asked not to wear shirts emblazoned with sexual or profane messages. The tardy policy has been revised, with harsher consequences (suspension after six tardies) intended to reinforce punctuality and responsibility in students.

"I feel very appreciative that we have a strong figure who can help the social aspects. He's a great force we definitely needed," said business teacher, Mrs. Kathy Bateman.

Eleventh grader Kristen Holway commented, "I think his different points of views and opinions are needed greatly. I also believe he is the personal principal students want."

Teacher and coach Mr. Rick Linehan described Mr. Fortune as "a breath of fresh air in this school. He's a strong leader."

"He's great. I think his theme of respect is good. It's about time they started to address the issue," volunteered senior Jeff Mahannah.

Math teacher Mr. Norman Letendre commented, "I believe he is going to be a good principal for this school and for this community."

Science department head Dr. John Mika summarized what seemed to be the prevailing faculty opinion: "He's a fine man."

Ian MacAllister, a junior search committee member, had this to say about Mr. Fortune: "Hopefully, he will be a change."

"I think he's a very great guy. He's a big improvement for our school. I was on the search committee and I feel Mr. Fortune will do a good job," observed senior Alicia Rose.

Senior Matt Carstensen praised Mr. Fortune as a "nice guy. He's really friendly with the students. He gets out (into the school environment) and shows participation and enthusiasm. He takes time to care about everyone."

Mr.Fortune has expressed as his primary goal the establishment of a solid, mutual respect between students and faculty. While most students don't feel that Barnstable is suddenly a bastion of respect and courtesy, they do, however, acknowledge a "change" to some degree in student morale.

Will stringent tardy policies and a moderate dress code pave the way to mutual respect at BHS?

Who can say for sure?

We can only hope that Mr. Fortune will continue to encourage the students and faculty toward respect and remain as enthusiastic and determined as he is now at the start of his career at Barnstable High School.

Graduation marks the end of an academic year and the beginning of a new chapter in your lives. It is a time of mixed emotions. The excitement of what lies ahead causes eager anticipation and trepidation. At a time such as this, there is often a tendency not to "take time" for reflection.

Rather than letting your memory lapse, it might be profitable to take a few moments to think back to the helping hands that reached out to you and helped you reach the point where you now stand. Remember that others might need a helping hand or a few words of encouragement from you.

As you pass through the doors of Barnstable High School for the final time, you enter a new and exciting phase of life — a new freedom. Giving of oneself to another is the ultimate. Always with freedom comes greater responsibility to ourselves, our families and our fellow man.

This, my first year at Barnstable, will be treasured always. To you, Class of 1993, my thanks for your cooperation and best wishes for success in the future.

— Alvin V. Fortune

Phu is naturally gifted. Some people who have great skill put themselves up on a pedestal, but Phu is not like that at all. He's unselfish and always willing to help others."

Alicia Rose simply seems to be involved in everything: from Student Council to Peer Leadership in school, and from coaching basketball for the Barnstable Recreations Department to the Big Brothers/Big Sisters program out of school. She manages to accomplish every task with pride, though, and always with a smile on her face. "I find time to be involved with everything because I want to be involved with everything," says Alicia. "I put myself on a strict schedule and I try to spread myself equally to everything I'm doing."

Like Alicia, Amy Gamache is able to handle a variety of activities at once while still accomplishing all of her tasks. Amy juggles being the captain of the girls crew team with her job at Express, and still finds time to work hard and lend her writing skills as an Insight editor. Why does Amy remain so involved with Insight? "I enjoy the field of journalism, and I get a chance to experience what it would be like to be part of a real newspaper staff."

"I like Kaleidoscope because it's a magazine which expresses different people's literary abilities," says Kathy McGarvey. "It is the most creative club that I know of in the high school." Kathy has been a member of Kaleidoscope for three years, contributing largely to its design and organization with her own creativity and dedication. Her skills in English and writing have helped her not only in Kaleidoscope but as co-editor of the yearbook.

"It hasn't always come easy to me," says Julie Graham about success in school, "but it's just a matter of setting my priorities. Then I can get things done, and get them done well." Julie is an independent and hardworking member of our class. She divides her time between schoolwork and involvement in Drama club while teaching swimming lessons at the Cape Cod YMCA. Still, she remains focused enough to keep up her studies and earn good grades.

Amy Gamache

Another independent senior is Rachel Doriss. Rachel is very creative and a true individual, obvious from her unique and bright style of dress. She makes pictures for the Special Needs students in addition to dresses, presents, drawings and all her own clothes "because I know how, I like to, and I like to watch people." Rachel adds, in her usual joking manner, that she is "proud to be an American: love it or leave it!"

Julie Graham

There are approximately 300 members of the Class of 1993, and every one has contributed to the diversity of our class. Each person has different skills and talents, not all of which are widely known. Every class needs sports stars and straight A students to make it complete, but it would be just as incomplete without Eagle Scouts, dancers and artists.

Señora Diaz

My very best wishes to all the seniors who touched my life at BHS and made me a better teacher. Wherever you are next year continue to get involved, to risk meeting new people, and please continue to care for one another.

With much love and many tears,
F.M. Hughes

To homeroom 613: I can still remember the frightened ninth graders who clutched their student handbooks as they faced the overwhelming task of completing high school. Even now, behind the bravado, I sense the uneasiness you feel facing life after high school. You will subdue that beast of the future they way you subdued the beast of high school.

M. Bendiksen

I will miss you, my friends! Congratulations on your current and future successes. "To laugh often and love much; to win the respect of intelligent persons and the affection of children; to earn the approbation of honest critics and to endure the betrayal of false friends; to appreciate beauty; to find the best in others; to give one's self; to leave the world a bit better, whether by a healthy child, a garden patch, or a redeemed social condition; to have played and laughed with enthusiasm and sung with exultation; to know that even one life has breathed easier because you have lived — this is to have succeeded." Ralph Waldo Emerson. Best Wishes!

Mr. Pat

In the railroad of life will you be a narrow gauge?

Mr. Ruberti

You may be disappointed if you fail, but you are doomed if you don't try.
The art of being wise is the art of knowing what to overlook.
Do not the most moving moments of our lives find us without words?
No one can make you feel inferior without your consent.
Cleverness is not wisdom.
Common sense is instinct, and enough of it is genius.
The best way to cheer yourself up is to try to cheer somebody else up.
If a man has common sense he has all the sense there is.
With every adversity there is an opportunity.
He has achieved success who has lived well and laughed often Success is not something to wait for — it's something to work for.
The talent of success is nothing more than doing what you can do well and doing well whatever you do.
Achievement . . . a time for looking back with pride, for looking ahead with joy.

Mrs. Bateman

Always try to give 110%. Never say "I can't"; always say, "I'll try to do my best." Nothing beats a failure, but a try. Good luck in all of your endeavors. I know that success is waiting for you.

J. Lawson

You are a very special class to me. Your freshman year was also my first year here. During the last four years I have had the opportunity to meet and know most of you, and have worked closely with many of you. What a joy it has been to see you grow and develop and deal with your own personal challenges. Many of you hold special places in my heart. I wish all of you the best of luck in the future, and hope that one day you look back on your high school experience and feel as elated as I do about the class of 1993.

Fondly,
Mrs. Hurley

"Look to this day, for it is life. The very life of life. In its brief course lie all the realities and vertices of existence, the bliss of growth, the splendor of action, the glory of power — For yesterday is but a dream, and tomorrow is only a vision. But today, well lived makes every yesterday a dream of happiness and every tomorrow a vision of hope. Look well, therefore, to this day." ## "SAVE THE BEST FOR LAST"
MAY 8, 1992

It had taken us three years. But on the evening of May 8th, 1992 we had finally done it. The Class of 1993 had united. We gathered for this long awaited, much talked about event, the Junior Prom. With black, white and red decorations bedecking the Tara Hotel's romantic function room (complete with 4 by 4 dance floor), students danced the night away with pomp and circumstance. Black off-the-shoulder dresses were the most commonly worn style that night and those, combined with the classic black tuxedos, created an entire room filled with bedazzling couples arrayed in their very best. To the melodies of Vanessa Williams' "Save the Best for Last" the memorable and enjoyable night, which had seemingly just begun, came to an end, to become one more fond memory from the distant past.

Clubs and Activities

"As we live, experience and learn, we add on to our castle, and we grow as it grows . . ."

Fall means Homecoming, Spirit Week

Homecoming 1992 was capped by yet another victory for the BHS football team, this time a 30-22 win against Silver Lake, due in great part to the large turnout of fans who helped cheer the winning team. The next night Raider fans celebrated their victory at the dance. The homecoming queens, freshman Jennifer Mann, sophomore Jen Gustafsen, junior Page Pina, and senior Bryna Kuenzal, entered the gym followed by the senior king Ben Stanley. Also, the Quarterback Club recognized the senior football players for their spirit and service.

Spirit Week soon followed, with numerous competitions between the freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior classes. This year Spirit Week was dampened somewhat by rain, but the spirits of the students were nothing but enthusiastic.

On the last day before Thanksgiving break yet another competition took center stage: the fabled Decoration of the Halls. The freshman wing, reflecting great artistic ability, featured the Falmouth Clippers burning. As you entered the sophomore wing, you entered a world of school pride covered in blaring red and white, down to the red and white checkerboard floor. The juniors took a different approach, creating an underwater scene featuring the sinking of the Clippers and the history of the Red Raiders. In the 600 wing, the seniors built a replica of the next day's parade, decorated lockers, paintings of football players, Super Checks! The sophomore class took first in this competition, the seniors second, while the freshman and junior classes tied for last.

The week closed with the pep rally and the last of the Spirit Week competitions. The rally pumped up Raider fans for the Thanksgiving game against hated Falmouth. Although playing at home this year, the Raiders suffered an unfortunate 14-13 loss in the final minutes of the rain-drenched classic.

Despite many cancellations due to more rain, the Powderpuff game eventually took place. The Senior Saints bulldozed to a 26-8 win over the Junior Blue Bruisers, enabling them to finish second in the overall Spirit Week competition to the surprising sophomore class. The longest Spirit Week in history had come to an end at last.

WHO KNOWS ?

These are the responses of those asked the rhetorical question for which no one has yet discovered factual answer: "Why is the BHS yearbook named the Barnacle?" As you will find out as you read further, NOBODY KNOWS!!! The actual definition of a barnacle in the dictionary is a kind of shellfish, a stalked cirriped often found on the bottoms of ships; or any timber fixed below the surface of the sea. Interestingly enough it also has two other definitions; one is a species of goose found in the northern seas, and the other an instrument placed upon a horse's nose to confine him for shoeing or dressing. Will we ever know the real reason our book is named the Barnacle? Probably not, but one thing is sure: it's stuck with us over the years.

"I haven't a clue. It's been that way for the past twenty years." — Mr. Geary

"It used to be called the Clipper — that was in oh . . . the thirties, but I don't know why or when it changed to the Barnacle." — Mr. Ruberti

"I haven't worked here for that long. Maybe it has to do with ships and on the bottoms are barnacles that stick?" — Mr. Shrum

"I may be wrong but, the gentlemen in charge was a sailor, I believe, and in choosing a name he chose one that was related to what he did and tied into things we did." — Mr. Goveia

"Wow, you've got me . . ." — Mr. Graves

"It has nothing to do with anything except that it is a term to do with nauticalism: the same reason we are the Raiders." — Mr. Kingman

"Barnacle is the name of BHS's yearbook not only because of its nautical theme, but also because this book is shared experiences that attach themselves permanently to our imaginations. These memories of high school cannot nor will not be forgotten." — Mrs. Regan

"Because the first yearbook advisor was fired for taking students off school premises to scrape the barnacles off the bottom of his boat!" — Mr. Linehan

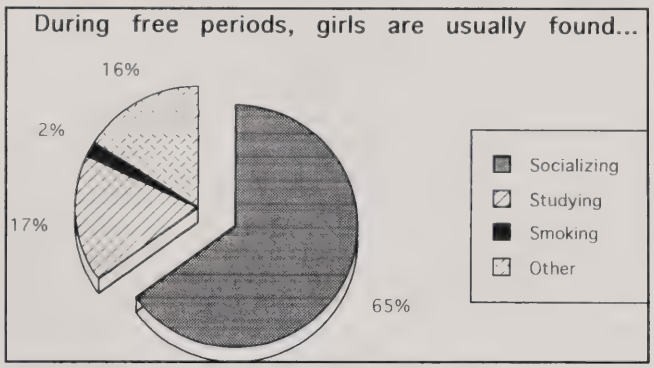
Ch-ch-ch-changes! As President Clinton would say, change is a necessary and beautiful thing. "Old and familiar" can be nice . . . safe, but, let's face it! After a while, old is just OLD and familiar is just BORING! This being the year of CHANGE, the Barnacle staff decided to vamp up the Barnacle a bit. The Clubs section is more than a section . . . it's a revolution in yearbook design!

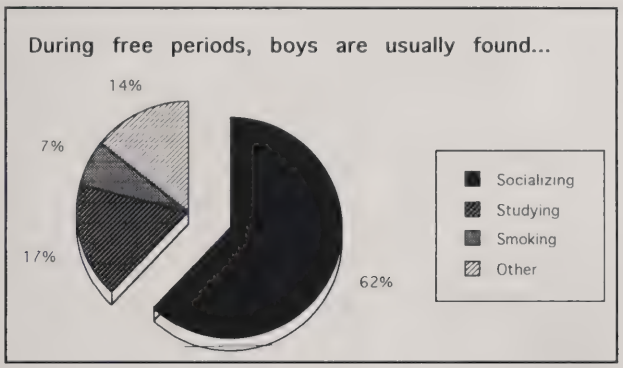
Well, maybe that is a little extreme.

Anyhow, this once tiresome and repetitive section of the book has been updated, refurbished and redesigned with one purpose in mind: to entertain YOU!

The following spiel will guide you through your journey into Clubs.

HOT SHOTS: We wanted to recognize senior club members . . . put them in the spotlight! But, we couldn't just have random pictures scattered on pages with no significant purpose. So . . . we asked them questions about everything from pop culture to leadership skills! The club members' HOT responses to these burning questions are accompanied by a snapSHOT of the "clubber."





HE SAID, SHE SAID: Remember way back in '92 when you got those Anonymous Senior Survey sheets in homeroom? Well, we didn't do that for our own entertainment! We counted them . . . we graphed them . . . (we even laughed at some of them) and voilà! The results are artfully interspersed throughout the clubs section. You might call it STUDENT LIFE — Questions about YOU, YOUR ideas and YOUR opinions.

"Inquiring minds want to know . . ." what one word Barnstable seniors would use to describe their high school experience. As expected, students met this formidable challenge with wit, wisdom, and an incredible variety of responses! "Fudgelicious" and "teenfire" are just a sampling of the unique creativity thriving in the halls of Barnstable High School. To experience the full flavor of the class of '93 you have only to check out the borders on the following pages where, like it or not, your witticisms will live forever!

On that note, fasten your seat belts and get ready for take-off! We hope you enjoy the ride!

WHO: Members of the Art Club explore and develop their artistic talent through experimentation with different art materials available to them. Mr. Carl Lopes, the advisor to the Art Club, says that students work individually or in groups on various art projects. The Art Club is less structured than many clubs, as junior member Taryn Roy explains: "There could be three people one week and twenty the next."

WHAT: "The function of our club," says Mari Horiguchi, "is to finish art projects or to start new projects that we do not have time to finish." Mr. Lopes describes the art club as an opportunity for students to "work on projects in a 'workshop' environment. It's also a time when students can experiment with advanced materials." At a typical meeting, students might also practice airbrush techniques or work on the computer. Needless to say, everyone pitches in to clean up the work area!

On a Wednesday afternoon, eight students are gathered in a dark, secluded room experimenting with film.

"How many people in this school know we have a darkroom? Why let it go to waste?" responded senior Michelle Caprio when asked what made her want to join the Photo Club.

Science teacher Mr. Charles Shark, who is the Photo Club advisor, estimates that the club was established about twelve years ago. Mr. Shark has advised the club for seven years.

Other members of the club include senior M. K. DeRosa and junior Danielle Kennery. M.K. and Danielle both enjoy the artistic aspect of photography.

"Basically, the Photo Club is for students who are interested in learning the art of photography. That's how we approach it — as an art and a science!" exclaimed Mr. Shark.

When asked what is accomplished at a typical meeting of the Photo Club, Michelle said, "We're learning about photography, how to roll film, develop the film and about photo techniques. We take pictures on our own and bring the film to the club."

Mr. Shark described his role at a typical Photo Club meeting: "We just go into the darkroom and work. I give them instructions on how to develop pictures and then the students work on their own."

What does Michelle hope to learn form the Photo Club? "I'd really like to be able to develop my own pictures and use the darkroom on my own. I think it's interesting to take pictures and know how to develop them."

What makes the Photo Club unique? Mr. Shark continued: "It serves a serious segment of the population that no other club seems to serve. There is no other club that bridges art and science like the Photo Club."

"Speech team has given me a sense of personal achievement and the confidence to stand up in front of people without being nervous," says senior co-captain Sarah Davignon. The BHS speech team is made up of some forty similarly enthusiastic and competitive people, mostly underclassmen, who attend eight tournaments each year and compete in one of 16 categories. Most students compete by reading prose, poetry or children's literature, but some perform original oratory or serve in the Student Congress. Mrs. Wollak, the team's advisor, helps members find pieces to read and coaches them on how to perform in competition. Co-captains Courtney Butler and Sarah Davignon are responsible for leading warm-up exercises before competitions and organizing the team, but, says Sarah, "Mrs. Wollak is the one who makes it all work. She is the main part of the speech team."

Through practice and perfection of their techniques, two seniors, Sarah Davignon and Kitt Lavoie defeated statewide competition in their categories for the right to compete in the Catholic Forensic League's Grand National Tournament in Boca Raton, Florida in late May. Kitt was chosen for his performance in Student Congress and Sarah for her readings in Prose and Poetry. What does Kitt enjoy most about performing on the speech team? "Speech has given me the chance to hear my own voice more often than I otherwise would have," he jokes, "and I love it for that."

Over the past few years color guard has given senior Eva-Lynn Gove "memories, lots and lots of scary, funny, wonderful memories."

Color guard combines music, creativity and dance, but most importantly, fun. During a routine they practice throwing their rifles in the air and then catching them. The guard practices over and over until they are in sync and can twirl at fast speeds. Instructor Ruth Gardner says, "Color guard unites music and twirling. It is also part of the marching band, and if you don't or can't play a musical instrument there is still a place for you in the guard."

Color guard travels to many competitions each year. This year they went to Abington and Somerset as well as to Windjammer Academy in Connecticut. At all three competitions the color guard placed second. The color guard also performs at football games during halftime shows. Last year the squad traveled to Pennsylvania and Hershey Park along with the band.

The color guard prepares for a competition by "practicing with the band and running the show over and over again until it reaches our coach's standards," says junior Christina Lewis.

How do color guard members feel the moment before a competition? Senior Julie Kijak says, "I feel very nervous." Freshman Nicole Cobb agreed, saying that she also felt "very excited."

"The greatest thing about color guard is the friends you make," says flag captain Abigail Buckler. Many other members of color guard agreed that friendships from color guard were valuable.

Senior rifle captain Kim Cauthen says she will miss "the people and all the fun that goes with it" when she graduates.

Strike up the band!

"We're different from many clubs, because in a special way we support everyone — all the different teams in the town," says senior Jenn Muncherian of the Barnstable High school marching band.

Nearly 90 students, led by 23 seniors, comprise this enthusiastic and dedicated group.

Mr. Anthony Stevens, fondly referred to as Uncle Tony or U.T. by most band participants, heads the large group.

Three divisions comprise the band: the marching band, the concert band and the jazz band.

This year is the eleventh that Mr. Stevens has led the BHS musicians. Of this year's band he says, "They are the best . . . Every kid will not love what other kids do . . . but band does get recognized as a vital part of the school."

Some of this year's members feel differently — that the band is not as well regarded as it should be. Senior Catherine Palcic emphatically states that "band can be a lot of hard work; it's frustrating . . . we just don't get the respect we deserve."

As many non-bandies would probably attest . . . band participants are regarded as one big clique. Muncherian feels that the band is "like a big pep rally . . . I don't think of band as a clique, but rather just really good friends, and if friends are considered a clique, then yes, maybe we are one. Many think we are a snobby clique . . . they call us 'bandfags!' But they judge us too quickly. We play an instrument; they play a sport . . . there is no difference."

On a more upbeat note, senior Amy Rich believes that "Band is like a family; it's not a mere academic class . . . spending one class with 100 kids . . . you become a family."

Senior drum major Cheryl Wolfe describes what band seems to be all about when she says it's "spirit, pride, doing your job and having fun at the same time. We perform at home football games, march in parades, compete at away competitions and perform shows."

However, other clubs have similar agendas, so what makes band a unique entity unto itself? Cheryl says, "Everyone can participate and belong; everyone respects everyone else. The student leadership is extraordinary; everyone, though, is necessary to create a successful band . . . Once you're a part of band, you're a member forever."

Jenn Muncherian puts the band in perspective when she says, "We're not God, simply because we make music . . . but we must make people aware that music can make a difference."

After all, what would a Raider football game be like without the lingering sounds of the real pep-ralliers?

"Singing is a lifelong pursuit which produces a lifelong happiness," states chorus advisor Mrs. Grace O'Connor. "Chorus is an opportunity for developing self-expression and self-esteem, not to mention a great challenge."

"Practice, practice, practice" is the key phrase Mrs. O'Connor mentions when asked how the chorus prepares for a concert. Chorus, like Band, is considered a credited class; it meets every day during third period. These practices consist of warming up by doing scales and balancing tone quality, then practicing the songs for the show. The chorus performs three major concerts a year: the holiday-spirited Christmas production, a pops concert in February and finally, their spring concert.

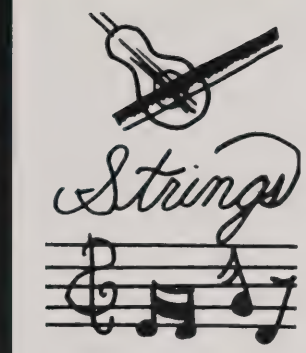
Some of the highlights for the chorus have been their occasional performances at Rotary luncheons and traveling with the jazz band to various elementary schools to entertain the kids. The all-time favorite show they perform for the students and the town during the year is Nostalgia Night. The glitzy choreography and solos they prepare for this performance always have the crowd singing and clapping along.

"Practice, practice, practice!" — Chorus Advisor Mrs. O'Connor

It's a feeling of sensation and "stardom" for the chorus when performing their shows, mainly because they are doing something they love . . . singing! The joy of singing influenced many of the members to join Chorus so they could enhance their singing voices and display their talent.

Singing is "wonderful for the speaking voice, not to mention reducing stress and making you feel good," claims Mrs. O'Connor.

Future plans of the chorus? They would like to see tryouts, thus allowing more people in the school to become aware of the class and a chance to display their talent. Who knows? A star could be discovered right here at Barnstable High, just from singing a tune with the chorus.



"String Ensemble gives you the opportunity to express yourself musically and creatively," says senior Maggie Carchrie-Feltus. "It lets you get together with others who have similar interests." The fifteen members of the BHS String Ensemble meet third period every day with their teacher, Mr. Ira Schaefer, to practice playing music from every musical era, from classical to modern.

String Ensemble is not limited only to playing music, although that is its primary function. They also study music theory and music history. At one meeting per month, the members discuss business matters, such as concerts they will attend, trips they will go on and money matters. This year's activities and trips include playing at various local elementary schools, providing entertainment at nursing homes and retirement communities, and attending the District, All-Cape, Southeastern Massachusetts, and All-State Music Festivals. They have even planned a trip to Long Island in the spring.

With so few members, the String Ensemble is close-knit. They pride themselves on their cameraderie. "We are very close. We are not just a club, but rather a group of really good friends," says junior Andrea White. What will Andrea miss most about playing in String Ensemble? "Above all, I will miss the people. I will definitely miss my friends."

People in high places

"We are a club that brings power to an otherwise helpless voice — the student body," says senior and four-year student council member Dan Beuke.

"As a member of Student Council I have seen results ... we better the quality of Barnstable High School," states president and three year representative Deirdre Conroy.

"What is Student Council?" is a question asked frequently by BHS students. "Do they do anything?" In fact, in the words of Student Council members, the Student Council does "quite a bit." According to senior Corey Scrupps, "Student Council members put in a good deal of work to create an outstanding work environment."

Mr. Rick Linehan, devoted Student Council advisor, feels that, "Student Council is a bridge between administration, faculty and students."

"Some of this club's most important projects this year have included The Raider logo issue, Spirit Week, senior exam exemptions and the overall respect issue at Barnstable," says Mr. Linehan, otherwise known as Linny.

Justine Lynch, a senior and three-year council member, claims that Student Council has been beneficial to her. "Student Council has given me the opportunity to get involved with the student body ... we get students' opinions on issues affecting them and the school, out and open to discussion."

Why is it that some BHS students who have not been involved with the program have such vague feelings toward this club aimed at improving the school environment? According to Justine, "Much of the student body thinks that we are a clique ... but our purpose is to alleviate students' dislikes. The student body does not come to us, but the opportunity is always there."

"Student Council is the only organization that is elected by the students of BHS," Linny says "It is more visible than many of the other organizations that exist here ... the results are more immediately tangible."

Student Council may not be a panacea for the school's problems, but undoubtedly it does try to solve some of them.

"The National Honor Society participates in three different activities to help students, the community, and more student," said NHS President Andrew Milk. "Throughout the whole year, each member of NHS tutors students in areas that they (the students) need help with. Then we do a service to the community. This year we collected infant and toddler clothing to give to various shelters on the Cape. Finally, the NHS works on a scholarship fund. This year we are selling Class of '93 T-shirts for $10.00. This scholarship is fiven to graduating seniors."

Mrs. Suzanne Strenz-Thibault is the advisor of NHS; she is aided by Jennifer Kenney, Vice-President; Krissy Brown, Secretary; and Peter O'Toole, Treasurer.

"My duties as club secretary are basically to write a newsletter after each meeting (which goes out to all members) and I have helped in organizing the Class of '93 T-shirt sale," said Krissy Brown.

Krissy said that she has personally benefitted from being in NHS. "Doing the infant/toddler clothing drive gave me a great deal of satisfaction. Although it (the National Honor Society) does look good in college applications, there is a great deal of personal satisfaction involved. At the end of the year we will have clothed many children as well as helped one student at BHS financially for college."

Students are chosen for the club by grade point average, and then "you have to fill out an application, and all the teachers in the school checkk the list to make sure they don't disagree with the selection," said Jessica Thauer.

Selected students are inducted in their junior year, and are involved in the club during their senior year.

And what will NHS member Jessica Thauer miss the most about NHS? "The people. It's a really great group of people and we all get along well together."

"An officer is power — more power than any other club at BHS . . . you call the shots." — President Sean Breen

Homeroom Reps

Every school environment includes those students who "take charge." Working together, the class officers and homeroom representatives have successfully "taken charge" of many senior class activities. With some help from both the dean, Ms. Vecchione, and the student body, the senior class officers, Sean Breen (president), Brenda Anderton (vice president), Barbara Becker (secretary), and Peter O'Toole (treasurer) have helped to make four years of high school a tremendous success.

The class officers work together with the many homeroom representatives hoping that, in this way, the majority of students will be heard. "The other officers and I meet to discuss possibilities for bringing the class closer together through fund raisers, dances, and a bunch of other activities," Brenda comments. She then adds, "Next, we bring our ideas to the homeroom reps who relay them to the rest of the senior class. If the input is good, we go with it; if not, we brainstorm for new ideas." Consequently, all members agree, the first goal of the officers is aimed at bettering the school environment.

Each officer chose to participate in student government for a different reason. Sean Breen says that he likes this organization because it is "one of the most powerful in the school." He also likes the idea that class officers "have the ability to transform the school into something really food." Peter O'Toole feels equally strong about his position: "The officers are some of the most active students in the school — I wanted to be part of that." Finally, Barbara Becker recalls some of their accomplishments: "I was so excited to see such a remarkable turnout at our junior class dog show . . . and our junior prom was incredible too!" All agree that through this experience they have gained respect for their peers, not to mention an overwhelming sense of pride in Barnstabel High School.

Indeed, their commitment to the class of '93 has not gone unnoticed.

"I've learned how to get things done, accept responsibility and accomplish goals." — Secretary Barbara Becker

What Makes a Student a Leader?

"I believe that to be a leader, one must be able to speak out to defend what he believes in. I also believe that a leader must be a confident and aggressive person. Leaders are not the type of people who will let opportunities pass them by . . . they take risks. Leaders take charge and organize."

— Amy Gamache

"A leader is someone who feels a great deal of school pride and wants to express it. A leader is someone who cares enough to spend his/her free time helping the entire school. A person who sees that he or she can make a difference and better this (their) school — that is a leader."

— John Anderson

"A student who wants to make life happen, not watch life happen; someone who doesn't mind being inconvenienced; one who welcomes opportunities to creatively solve what others would consider problems; one who will listen to and respect others — that is a leader."

— Cheryl Wolfe

Secretary Barbara Becker, Treasurer Pete O'Toole, President Sean Breen and Vice President Brenda Anderton (No, they weren't told to sit that way!)

"I've got a new respect for my peers and an excitement for Barnstable." — Vice President Brenda Anderton

Student Advisory Board

In a quiet room, Mr. Graves and five students — seniors Megan Greer, Aimee Hansen, Jen Tyson, Jen White and sophomore Dan Silverman — discuss current issues.

The Student Advisory Board, made up of these four seniors and one sophomore, debates various school-related topics. This year's issues, says Mr. Graves, have included "the school logo controversy, smoking in school, condom availability, budget discussions — basically whatever may arise."

This sounds like real work compared to other school groups, but as Silverman states, "The Student Advisory Board's purpose is to strengthen the school . . . not really to give enjoyment to participants, but rather to better the school. We take issues usually discussed by the Student Council and bring them to the proper authority such as the school committee, Dr. Tynan and Mr. Graves."

Silverman feels that SAB has an important role at BHS. "The issues we deal with are important," he says, "not whether the school salad bar is fresh — we deal with topics that affect the whole student body."

Asked what makes a good member, Mr. Graves responds, "A person who doesn't have tunnel vision — one who can look at the total school and put their opinions and biases aside. A member should be a good listener, have political awareness, and the ability to express ideas clearly."

Megan Greer called this year's board "open-minded and responsive."

Sounds like just the criteria for a successful SAB.

"The officers are really active — some of the most active members in the school." — Treasurer Peter O'Toole

Barnacle: "Boat Scum"?

Time: Monday: 11th period. Place: Room 617. Music blares from behind closed doors and students are flowing in and out for the entire period. Class party?

Not quite. Inside, 27 stressed-out students are frantically trying to design, write, photograph, edit and create Barnacle 1993 — the BHS yearbook.

What are they doing in there?

Under the supervision of yearbook advisor Mr. Ed O'Toole and the fearless leaders (editors-in-chief) Kathy McGarvey and Alicia Rose, the staff is simultaneously learning, planning and designing. In one corner, Dougan Sherwood and Aimee Doyle are busy leafing through magazines to find look-alikes. Meredith Eagar and Rebecca Gregoire are laying out advertisement pages while Marie McCormack and Heather Lanoue are preparing the year pages. Everyone has some task to complete and, most importantly, a deadline to meet!

"In addition to being a club, Barnacle is a 25,000 dollar a year business. If kids don't do well as members of another club, they can quit and the impact is probably not going to be financial, but if kids quit on yearbook, or they don't take it seriously, it has financial implications," explains Mr. O'Toole.

Peter Crellin appreciates the importance of the yearbook to his classmates. "We make something that affects a lot of people, our whole class. You can be on any club or sports team and have a record that you'll remember for a year. But, everything we've done — it will make you remember your whole high school experience for the rest of your life."

Since the yearbook is probably the only high school memoir that everyone will have in common, the Barnacle staff strives to make the yearbook representative of everyone.

"Twenty years from now, I want people to look back and say 'I remember this kid and that kid. And, even though he wasn't very popular, I still remember him.' Basically, the yearbook should be the whole school as one, not just one little group of people," says Alicia Rose.

Work, however, can't be done at a leisurely pace. Kathy McGarvey explains: "You get to the point where the deadline is coming up, you've got to get that page in and it's not top quality. Those deadlines will kill you! Generally, I think you need the yearbook staff to work as a team, to use their individuality to make a good yearbook."

"I think of Kaleidoscope as a celebration of art, photography, prose, drawing and poetry," says English teacher Mr. Wollak, who is an advisor for the magazine.

Mrs. Regan, the other advisor, adds, "We would like it to be an expression of the art people are doing in the school." She goes on to note that they "try not to be too conservative in definition of art."

Mrs. Regan calls students who join Kaleidoscope "people who don't mind not having a lot of fame or recognition for their work. Kathy McGarvey, Jen Hembree, Julie Kijak, Etta Lilienthal, Justine Lynch and Sarah Manning have been with us for years. They are the kind of people who work very hard, are intelligent and observant."

The magazine, first published in 1984, is published every spring. Usually about 150 works are submitted and from this the staff prints about 75 percent. According to Mrs. Regan, "We're a very direction-oriented club. The staff are the people who create an opportunity for other artists in the school." For the past four years the magazine has been submitted to the National Council of Teachers' nationwide contest in which the magazine is evaluated by other English teachers.

Etta Lilienthal, a senior who has worked as a layout editor, praises the club: "You can really do what you want, be very creative and include or submit anything you like. I like seeing the artistic side of people. In school you just see their faces. Through Kaleidoscope you get to see their insides."

Julie Kijak, another senior, is just as enthusiastic. "I like reading all the submissions; it's fun!"

"I like seeing the variety of writing that people submit," says senior Sarah Manning.

However, the staff agrees it can be a lot of work. "The greatest challenge is choosing the material to print," states Kathy McGarvey.

Julie agrees: "We really work hard to make one final product."

Asked about the most important part of the magazine Mr. Wollak asserts, "Our greatest priority is with layout. A lot of work is done independently."

What will she miss most after graduating? Kathy McGarvey says, "I'll miss Mrs. Regan and Mr. Wollak because they're laid back and it's fun."

EXTRA! EXTRA!

WHO: The Insight editorial board is comprised of approximately fourteen juniors and seniors who have all completed the journalism course offered at BHS. Mr. Carlon acts as advisor to the board. Senior Laura Heyman, however, reminds us that Insight "is basically all student run. We get to say what we want!"

WHAT: Insight has been the school newspaper since 1968. The eight page publication covers events within the school community and the world. Each issue contains two editorials and an editorial cartoon. Editorial topics are voted on by the staff. Junior Yair Robinson explains, "We cover issues that we find relevant not only in our community but in our world. We truly are the voice of the school."

WHERE: The editorial board meets after school in Mr. Carlon's room, where each issue is developed and designed. The newspaper is distributed to all homerooms and extra copies are always available in the library and office.

WHEN: Insight is issued on a bimonthly basis, six issues per year. The Insight staff usually requires three afternoons to lay out the pages, write headlines, select stories and agree on editorials. According to Yair Robinson, finding an editorial topic on which all editors agree often involves "vicious arguments."

HOW: Almost all of the news stories in Insight are written by the journalism classes. The editorial board then has the challenging job of deciding which stories to run. Editors team up to lay out pages and write headlines for the stories. "It can be so frustrating when you have a page and nothing will fit that you need to fit. But, working together is so much fun that it doesn't even seem like it's work!" said Laura Heyman regarding the challenges of layout.

WHY: What makes students want to join the newspaper staff? Most agree that they enjoy writing and are curious about how a newspaper is run "behind the scenes." Dave Scarpato, however, has his own reasons. "I joined Insight because of the beautiful working conditions, not to mention the spectacular view of the parking lot." Hmmm ... Mr. Carlon contributed his thoughts about the staff. "I think there is always a little mystique about seeing your name in print, plus the fact that it's won a lot of awards and is highly regarded. We have a decent time doing it as well!"

In your dreams, boys!

Puhleeese! A voluptuous ice pick murderess frolics about San Francisco with a recovering drug addict cop? Well, believe it or not, according to our recent survey, 48% of Barnstable's senior boys identified Basic Instinct as the scenario most similar to their lives! What's wrong with this picture? It seems that some of us have a difficult time differentiating between FANTASY and REALITY.

On the other hand, 43% of the girls chose 16 Candles, the story of a love-struck, boyfriendless girl whose family has forgotten her "sweet sixteen." Now then, who would YOU say has the most positive self-image?

AFS

According to advisor Ms. Ellie Collins, "AFS has two parts. One part deals with the Barnstable students and what we do locally and the other part deals with foreign students who are coming in. We send our students to other countries and welcome international students. We try to get real cultural exchanges with other countries because that's how we get to know one another."

In December AFS holds its annual Christmas party. The adult club is invited, as are people who have been involved with AFS for years. These people support BHS students by raising money to support the AFS kids in our school. In March AFS travels to New York City for a weekend visit to the United Nations.

When asked what's unique about AFS, senior Randee Gagne says, "You are together with other people from different cultures. There might be a Finnish girl and an Italian girl; in the other clubs you don't have that mix."

What has AFS given Randee Gagne? "It's given me a stronger understanding of myself, the American culture, and the world around me. I'm more aware of world affairs and other cultures."

Hanna-Mari Hyotylainen, an exchange student from Finland, says two words about AFS: "It's awesome!" According to Hana, during their many meetings, Ms. Collins and students in AFS at Barnstable check to see if she's happy with her host family or if she has any problems. Also, during meetings they travel. For instance, for their meeting during the second week of January, AFS went to Boston.

What are the goals of AFS? "We're trying to encourage our students to look after one another and look at the rest of the world. Moreover, we're trying to help students figure out who they are in the scope of the global village rather than just in their own eyes." These words, from Ms. Collins, seem to capture the unique spirit of AFS.

World Issues

Barnstable High School students appreciate the clubs with international flair, maybe because it's difficult to ignore the many conflicts and changes occurring throughout the world and the affects they have on our society. Some students and administrators expressed what they believe to be the most significant international event that happened in 1992.

"The crisis in Somalia is on everyone's mind," commented senior Brenda Anderton.

Senior Karyn Howard added, "The presidential election will influence the entire world."

On a lighter note, Blake Sloan thought that the most significant occurrence in 1992 was "the Blue Jays' win."

Senior Jen Kenney believed that "the Wall" was most important of all.

Local Opinions

"How America deals with Somalia and how our example will impact other countries is a significant responsibility for 1992," was Mr. Fortune's assessment.

Other newsworthy events that students referred to included "constant turmoil in the Middle East," the transfer of power in the Soviet Union and "everything going in South Africa."

Who says teenagers aren't globally aware?

GAP

The Global Awareness Program, commonly referred to as GAP, began this year under the direction of foreign language and history teacher Mr. Patkoske. The nearly thirty GAP members include foreign exchange students from various countries, students from Barnstable High School who have traveled to other countries for a year, and students who show interest in foreign affairs.

"The purpose of our program," according to Mr. Patkoske, "is to unite people of many ethnic and cultural backgrounds and educate students and adults about the importance of international affairs. Our program stemmed from the Haitian Project; that faded out, so we are trying to give a little more attention by establishing GAP."

GAP meets weekly to plan projects and monthly to listen to guest speakers discuss world issues. What are some issues the club focuses on?

According to senior Randee Gagne, "We deal with foreign services, international business and currency programs, and global health concerns . . . I joined because I spent a year in Holland and I wanted to keep up with the international scene."

Polly Mathewson, a senior, is also a member of GAP. "I joined when I returned from my stay in Austria and Mr. Patkoske asked me to come and share my experiences."

GAP: Stairs (L-R): B. Hart, S. Macheras, M. Charput, S. Xander, A. Baker, S. Morais, A. Dana, Mr. Patkoske, Ms. Collins, E. Roberts, T. Sumpter, A. Lloyd, R. Gagne, H. Hyotylainen, P. Mathewson. J. When GAP first began, their top priority was recruiting members. That wasn't a difficult task thanks to the numerous posters with clever slogans that enticed students to join the new club. "After the recruiting priority the focus changed to welcoming the exchange students to Barnstable and showing them other students with parallel interests," remarked Mr. Pat.

A student from Belgium, Catherine Willemart, enjoys the GAP meetings. "I think it's very good because you can learn about other cultures, other people, and make friends."

Giorgia Lanza, from Italy, is glad there is a club dedicated to foreign awareness. "I think it is very interesting to speak to other exchange and foreign students. It makes nice friendships between different countries."

Mr. Patkoske is excited to see where GAP will lead. "There's no telling how far we could eventually go . . . with our programs open to the public, dozens of people will realize the importance and need to be conscientious of global affairs. These kids (in GAP) are enthusiastic and ready to begin an international atmosphere at Barnstable High School!"

"In Austria we drove one hour and would be surrounded by another culture. Here, we drive an hour and we haven't even reached Boston yet.

"I was also impressed at how environmentally aware everyone was. Recycling and conserving wastes was simply a way of life."

— Polly Mathewson

"I learned so much, not only about the Netherlands, but about myself."

Clubs With A Cause

Imani Club

The Imani Club. So often BHS students have misconceptions as to what the Imani Club is like — and who can be a member.

For starters — anyone is welcome. Former BHS social studies teacher and current equity officer Mr. John Reed, directs this group, which he describes as "a minority interest group that focuses on community service, cultural enrichment and volunteer projects in and for the community."

This year the club celebrates its eighteenth anniversary. That in itself is certainly an accomplishment, but Mr. Reed feels Imani's greatest success has been "college placement and achievement. We've placed over 70% of our students in institutions of higher learning. I help kids select schools and then I go one-on-one with the students and their families, helping fill out financial aid forms, etcetera, so that kids have more than one choice for a school. Because of the nature of the club you have to try and reinforce the students to go outside and do something unusual and give to the community."

Mr. Reed emphatically believes that Imani is for anyone, not merely the minority students of BHS. We discuss minority experience and issues, grades and many other topics. This club gives students with an interest in minority students a forum. "I teach my kids that they must be self-reliant and not depend on society or anyone else."

However, the main goal of Imani, stresses Reed, is "to lift the interest of minority students at BHS." Coincidentally, Reed's philosophy for life reads, "We are gathered here today to learn, to strengthen ourselves and our community."

Senior president and two year member Amina Smaykiewicz calls the Key Club "a community service organization sponsored by the Kiwanis Club" and proudly states, "Our club likes to help people that no other club is helping."

"So often in our teenage years we are selfish — caring only about our lives and affairs, but when you're in this type of group you care just a bit more, not about yourself, but others. I get a real sense of accomplishment when I help another person in need," says senior, two term vice president and three year member Janice Martone.

Its main goal? Smayckiewicz feels that the members of Key Club "put back into the community what we take from it. We help others who are less fortunate ... I mean, I watched a family pick out Christmas presents for their child that Key Club had given to the needy."

She stated enthusiastically, "I feel great knowing that I've helped many people ... I've also learned a lot about responsibility, team work and even myself."

Although Janice admitted the group is "small," she called it "effective." "Basically if your club isn't working on activities or topics directly affecting the bulk of the student body, they're not interested. No, community service might not gain in popularity, but transforming Key Club's purpose from one of helping the community to helping ourselves, the students, wouldn't be right. That's not what we're all about."

Amina notes that sophomore Moira McTigue and juniors Amy Claussen and Taryn Roy have been some of the club's greatest contributors.

Martone concludes, "We find the 'bad' things in the community and work at patching the problem, aiding the sick, feeding the hungry, entertaining the sick and distraught. Essentially, Key Club members are generous do-gooders."

Imagine: President Bill Clinton asks YOU for political advice on teen issues. You tell him ...

"What do you plan to do about correcting our education system and making it more competitive with the rest of the world — rather than just spending more money?"

"There are people who are in prison because of their beliefs, their color, their race or sex, who haven't advocated any violence," says Mrs. Francisca Fuentes, a special needs teacher and the advisor of a new Barnstable club, Amnesty International.

Amnesty International is a worldwide organization that works to assist prisoners of conscience and political prisoners. Also, it works to abolish all forms of physical and mental torture of prisoners.

Mrs. Fuentes organized a support group for Amnesty International in Barnstable after she had participated in Amnesty in New York. According to Mrs. Fuentes, other groups exist in Boston and Nantucket.

This unique club has attracted many enthusiastic participants. Amanda Baker, a sophomore, says she decided to become involved because "it sounded interesting that we could help people get freedom."

When asked what makes Amnesty unique, Jessica Toscano, also a sophomore, responds, "This club isn't just for ourselves. We're helping other people in other countries. It's an international thing."

However, all the members have a common goal, summarized by another sophomore, Stephanie Ford: "We all want to help people."

The present and future plans of the group include attempting to free prisoners. "If we get enough signatures, then it pushes the foreign governments to free people. Occasionally, they'll let a prisoner go," says Amanda Baker.

"We're writing letters to try and free people who are held in other countries against their will," adds Jessica Toscano.

As for Mrs. Fuentes, she has high hopes for the club. "I would really like us to come out of our comfort zone, our community and to look out on a larger scale to what we can do as individuals. I'd like to see us attend some conferences in Boston, to travel. I hope more people become aware of the problem of human rights violations and be more sympathetic and feel empowered by what Amnesty calls 'the power of the pen.' "

Mrs. Fuestes feels Amnesty International will be meaningful for Barnstable High. "Our youth and our vitality will bring enthusiasm to the school."

"My focus is to teach kids volunteerism, to give something back to the community and at the same time get something in return. It's community service," says Leo Club advisor Mr. Bill Schlegel.

Senior Kathy McGarvey, president of this year's group, says that the Leo Club is unique, and quite unlike other clubs at the high school. "The Leo Club is designed in such a way that kids who play sports or who are otherwise heavily involved in other activities can join and not feel pressured into having to be at every meeting. Knowing that you are helping other people is the best experience there is . . . the community benefits from us . . . we don't use any of the money we raise for ourselves — it all goes back to the school or town."

What community service activities has the club conducted? "Our primary goal is to eradicate blindness by the year 2000. We sponsor scholarships for BHS students, donated an eye-scanning machine to the high school, help the homeless and handicapped, and run our largest and longest running activity — the Cape Cod Athletic Association's annual marathon," says Mr. Schlegel.

There are many people that contribute to the club, that make it an ongoing success. "Sherry Evans is a huge contributor," says Kathy. "She has been past president, and has belonged to the club since she was a freshman. She's done a great job with it." The Leo Club is also sponsored by the Centerville-Osterville Lions Club, whose members always are willing to pitch in.

And how does Mr. Schlegel keep things running smoothly? "It's like eating a whale — how do you do it? One bite at a time."

Mr. Schlegel's approach is certainly working, even if his diet's a bit different.

Imagine: President Bill Clinton asks YOU for political advice on issues concerning America's Youth. You tell him . . .

"I feel that all American teens planning on furthering their education are concerned with college financing. Many graduating seniors are giving up their dreams of higher education because they can't afford to pay for college. We are losing future doctors, lawyers, politicians and other educated professionals because of a lack of funds."

WHO: Though the membership tally fluctuates with each meeting, there is a solid core of dedicated students in Students Against Driving Drunk. About twenty students are active members of the SADD chapter at BHS. Presidents Lydia Buckley and Jen Beuke, Treasurer Lynn Mulkeen and Public Relations Manager Meredith Houle work with Miss Holcombe, the club's advisor, to keep SADD alive and well.

WHAT: SADD is a national organization whose purpose is to encourage safety and prevent reckless drunk driving. Senior SADD member Tara Woodward explains: "The function of SADD is to help stop students from drinking and driving and to tell them that if they do drink that they really shouldn't drive." Tara attributes the club's ongoing success to Miss Holcombe. "Miss Holcombe is a great advisor who understands that we can help poeple a lot. She really understands." Some of SADD's projects this year have included the Pre-Prom assembly, the Multi-Media Presentation, SADD Day, the distribution of Contracts For Life and numerous dances. SADD students have also gone to freshman health classes to speak about drunk driving.

WHY: With so many organizations in the school, what makes students want to join SADD? According to junior Lynn Mulkeen, "Some members knew someone who was injured in a drunk driving accident; others have even been in an accident, and some people just believe in the cause." Tara specualtes that the club is popular because "it's out to help the people in our school." Meredith Houle expressed the feelings of most members: "The regular reason people give is to help promote not necessarily the idea of not drinking, but that if you are going to drink, you should be responsible. Of course, some people join just for the college resume!"

WHEN: SADD members convene once or twice a week in Miss Holcombe's room where they discuss project plans, make posters and brainstorm ideas. Students are divided into separate committees to work on their specific projects. One student summed up what SADD is all about with this remark: "A lot of other clubs produce something or talk about something, but SADD truly does something — we save lives!" ## Epic Weymouth game tops highlight list

This year's boys soccer team played a particularly gruelling Old Colony League schedule (five of the nine teams made the state tournament), finishing with a 3-11-2 record (4-12-2 overall).

The season was highlighted by a 0-0 tie against defending Division 1 state champs Weymouth at home. The first game Barnstable played against this league powerhouse ended in a 7- 0 shelacking. The rematch was arguably goalie and senior co-captain Jason Spinney's best of the year.

Another memorable game came against arch-rival Falmouth at the BHS soccer field. Falmouth took a quick 2-0 lead in the first half, but in the second half the Raiders came out and played some of their best soccer of the season. Junior halfback Tom Carvalho scored a big goal to make it 2-1. However, the Red and White came up a crossbar short of tying the game with only minutes remaining when Carvalho blasted another shot from 25 yards out. The ball ricocheted out of the penalty area, and Barnstable lost yet another close game.

Co-captain Steve Semprini and another senior, Travis Emery, were voted OCL All-Stars by the league coaches. Semprini, the center-halfback, who led the team in scoring, and Emery, the team's defensive catalyst, both played major roles throughout the season, but especially in Barnstable's inspired 1-0 victory over North Quincy on their home grass. In this game the Raiders took their slim lead (off a Semprini goal) into the second half. Then two Barnstable players were ejected from the game with red cards. First, senior forward Jason Sanders was thrown out for "barely touching" the opposing goalkeeper, then Carvalho was tossed "for breathing on North Quincy's goalie wrong," according to senior fullback Alec Rome. The Raiders then had to run down the 25 minutes left on the clock two men down, and clinging to that one goal lead. The victory was both heroic and sweet.

Although it wasn't a great season overall, and the team didn't reach the goal it set at the beginning of the season of six wins to get Coach Harry Evans to the 200 plateau, the team (consisting mainly of underclassmen) gained experience in what Sanders called "one of the toughest and most competitive (soccer) leagues in the state." With the ability to play the way they did against Weymouth and North Quincy, the Barnstable soccer players have to be heading into next season with fire in their eyes.

The senior members of the team included Co-captains Steve Semprini and Jason Spinney, Travis "Get a haircut" Emery, Alec Rome, who led the team in yellow cards, Jason "Prime Time" Sanders, Guy "Scuppa" Riedell, Jeff "Chowder" Gates and John "Hollywood" Anderson.

Lady Raiders kick into gear with six wins

All-Stars McIntyre and Johnson lead improving team

With a second straight 6-12 season, the girls soccer team stayed consistent despite a change in coaches. For its first three years the team had been coached by Health chairman Roy Cowing, who put the team on their feet. The 1992 team was led by Coach Wes Shrum, who returned to the soccer field after 14 years as a boys coach.

The 1992 team captains, Brenda Anderton and Barbara Becker, were commended by Coach Shrum for their leadership. "They were great, great captains, took over when I wasn't there. Great assets. I didn't have to worry about a thing." Other senior players included Hilary Ochoa, who was "always smiling," and Katie O'Leary, who was "a fine utility player," according to Mr. Shrum.

The best game of the season was the Raiders' home game against Plymouth. Although Barnstable lost, Plymouth didn't score until just over two minutes were left in the game. The final score may have read 1-0 Plymouth, but this gallant effort rated as a win for Barnstable because the team played so well and because Plymouth was a ranked team.

Coach Shrum recalled two other victories fondly. One was the game against New Bedford: the team won 8-0, with Nicole Way and Sarah Johnson each bagging two goals. Barbara Becker, Christine Frauton, Marisa Hedlund and Hazel Richmond chipped in with one each. The other great win was the first game against North Quincy, which the Raiders took 5-2. Sarah Johnson again led the way with a hat trick this time, while Christine Frauton and Hazel Richmond scored the other two goals to seal the victory.

O'Leary, a four year veteran, said that "the 1992 season was the best season we've seen as a team in the four years we've been around. It was a nice ending for me."

Booter Bits: OCL All-Star Johnson not only led Barnstable in scoring, but her 17 goals and 5 assists paced the entire Old Colony League as well . . . along with O'Leary, the other four year veteran for the Raiders was Becker . . . 1992 Cape Cod Times All-Stars were Johnson, Tanya McIntyre, Way, Frauton and Robyn Michonski . . . sophomore goalie McIntyre also made the OCL All-Star Team.

Golfers perfect in OCL, 10-1 overall

State tourney awaits after Raiders place second in EMass

The BHS golf team dominated the Old Colony League, finishing in first place with a perfect 8-0 record while posting a 19-1 record overall. They also qualified to play in the state championship in the spring with a second place finish in the Eastern Mass qualifying tournament. In addition, the Raiders won the OCL's sportsmanship award.

The only downfall of the year was a three point upset loss to Bourne in the fourth match of the season. "It was very disappointing to lose that match. It was our last year and we wanted to go out undefeated," said senior swingman Terry Karras.

However, the Raiders quickly turned it around and won all sixteen of their remaining matches. The first big victory of the season came when OCL foe Plymouth came to the Hyannis Golf Club with an undefeated record and thoughts of winning it all. However, Barnstable's depth proved to be too great for the Eagles as the host Raiders won, 41.5 to 30.5. The seasons biggest win would come late in the season when the team traveled to New Seabury to face arch-rival Falmouth for the Old Colony League crown. The match was tight all along; in fact, it was tied at 27 after the first six players of the day. That is, until the fourth flight, when senior Jamie Huse (6 pts) and freshman Matt Scioletti (6.5 pts) pulled out the victory and the league title for Barnstable, 39.5 to 32.5.

"I would like to thank the 1992 golf team for another successful season. The graduating senior golfers — Jamie Huse, John Butler, Terry Karras and Rita Paananen — contributed to much of our success," said coach Bob Kingman. The coach added one further message for his departing team members: "Continue to play golf and best of luck in the future."

This year's team was led by four strong junior golfers who will all be back next year to try to dominate the OCL once again. They will be a tough team to defeat and they should be a contender for the state title.

Tee Shots: Senior John Butler and juniors Mike Scioletti and Paul Bacon were selected Old Colony League All-Stars ... Scioletti won the OCL individual sportsmanship award and the William A. Bearse Jr. memorial award for most medal (low) scores ... Butler shot the third lowest score of the Eastern Massachusetts qualifying tournament ... Raiders will be playing in the District 1 state championship in the spring.

Field Hockey Team Shares OCL Title

Hughes paces Raiders to landmark season

The 1992 field hockey team blasted off to a great season with six straight wins and completed it with a league record of 6-1-3 and an overall record of 10-4-4. The girls' hard fought season led them to a share of their first Old Colony League title.

The season opener was an exciting defeat of Chatham, 4-2. "We were excited to get a taste of play, and when we did we showed them a great game of hockey," recalled midfielder Deirdre Conroy.

On October 27, the Raiders crushed the Taunton Tigers 7-0 giving them a Division I tournament berth. Sharon Hughes tallied five goals, Meredith Eagar one and Deirdre Conroy one.

On October 29, the team traveled to Falmouth High School to compete against the arch-rival Clippers. They brought home a "victorious" 2-2- tie, allowing them to share the OCL league title with Bridgewater-Raynham.

Until a penalty corner was granted for Barnstable with 10 seconds remaining, the girls had been held to one point. As the ball came out, Sharon Hughes collected and shot it into the net with just four seconds remaining in the game.

The hoped-for tournament game finally arrived on November 4, 1992 against the Durfee Hilltoppers at the UMass Dartmouth field. "Unfortunately, we didn't have our best game," said Coach Rogorzenski. The team fell 3-0 to Durfee and was ousted from the tournament.

All in all Coach Rogorzenski said that she was pleased about the '92 season. "It was a good feeling; I'd hoped we'd go one step further in the tournament."

The team proved to be a mentally strong team. "You could tell by their faces, and that was a good sign," Rogorzenski recalled.

When asked about this year's seniors' performance, Coach said, "I'm so glad we've been able to have such an athletic team who care about it so much . . . I still felt good; two of three years we've been in the league we've been in the tournament."

Strong defensewomen Dawn Cohan and Polly Mathewson played tough in every game. Midfielders Heather McAlpine, Deirdre Conroy and Jessica Bishopric kept control of the field to set up forwards Jen Kenney, Sharon Hughes, Meredith Eagar and Molly Lyons.

Sharon Hughes did exceptionally well for the team, scoring 20 goals; over half of the goals scored all season. All of the seniors improved daily, leading to increasingly skillful game play.

The dedication and drive of each one of the individuals on the team made for an impressive and successful season. "This year's team had more intensity and were more focused on the game . . . In the past I've had to struggle to get self motivation going," added Coach Rogorzenski about the team's intensity.

"With older kids on the team the play was a lot smoother . . . more anticipation," co-captain Jen Kenney noted.

Meredith Eagar added, "This year we were bonded more, we were all good friends. There was more unity and communication."

"I'm so glad we've had such an athletic team who care about it so much."

Raider runners continue to improve

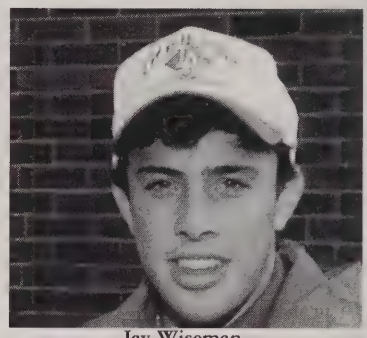
Jon leads the way; three named OCL Stars

Dan Souza

Jon Way



Jay Wiseman

The graduation of the Class of 1993 marks the "end of an era" for the boys cross country team, according to Coach Don Smith, as they lose their three core runners. "Tri-Captains Jon Way, Jay 'Weasel' Wiseman, and DAnny Souza renewed a disorganized and dispirited cross country program with four years of dedication," said Coach Don Smith. Way, the team's superstar, capped off an outstanding high school career by finishing fifth at the Massachusetts State Championships. He went undefeated in the OCL dual meets, and was on the OCL, Boston GLobe, and Boston Herald Interscholastic All-Star teams. Way led the boys team to a 3-5 record in the OCL and a 4-5 record overall.

The sophomore girls, led by Kara Nolan, Beth Murphy, and Michelle Giddings, dominated on the girls cross country team. The girls finished 4-4 in the OCL and 5-4 overall, taking fourth in the OCL league meet. At the Apponequet Invitational, the sophomore team took the first place team trophy. Beth Murphy and Michelle Giddings were both selected as OCL All-Stars. Coach Smith is proud of his girls team. "The girls team continued this year to grow in size and succeed in competition."

"Jon, Jay and Danny renewed a disorganized and dispirited program with four years fo dedication."

— Coach Don Smith

Not only is the Raider cross country team filled with outstanding athletes, but has a large number of excellent students as well. On both the boys and girls teams, sixty percent of the runners maintained Honors or High Honros grade levels throughout the fall season. Quite an accomplishment considering the hours of running they put in before and after school.

Raiders make v-ball finals for first time ever

Doyle, Boetig, Heppner lead way to 18-5 mark

This year the BHS volleyball team made history. For the first time ever the twelve member team made it as far as the South Sectional Finals. Though the Raiders' quest for a state crown ended there when they lost a heartbreaker to New Bedford, the year was in every other way a stunning success.

Ironically, an early season highlight was a Raider defeat of that same New Bedford team. With his team's defense "being the best I've ever seen it," Coach Tom Turco considered the team's first encounter with the Whalers "a great way to open the season." Senior Jaimie Heppner and junior Lina Rackauskas came on strong on offense, nailing over thirty kills, while senior co-captains Aimee Doyle and Kerry Boetig each posted strong serving games for the Raiders.

After that the team proceeded to win its fourth straight Cape Cod Classic, defeating both Notre Dame Academy and Durfee in relatively easy two game sets. Its next opponent was D-Y, BHS volleyball's only on-Cape nemesis, and the team improved its record to 4-0 in, surprisingly enough, a two game set. Barnstable managed to stay perfect until the ninth game, a meeting with the legendary North Quincy Red Raiders, the eventual undefeated state champions, in which they fell short in two straight games. The scores of 3-15 and 4-15 were not indicative at all of the tough play of the match, as Barnstable took the serve away from NQ over a dozen times in one game.

The Raider season continued strong, and with a strong two game, 15-5, 15-3 win over Fontbonne Academy, clinched a tournament spot for the fourth straight year. The Raiders stayed strong, finishing out the season with five straight wins, a regular season record of 16-4, and the knowledge that the last time they had lost to D-Y, Ronald Reagan was in office.

The Raiders were seeded second in the tourney, and secured a home court advantage for the first two, best of five tournament matches — assuming they went that far. Volleyball fans were not to be disappointed as the Raiders dropped their first opponent, Milton High, in a three game set, 15-5, 15-11, 15-5, with strong games played all around. Two nights later, to the cries of a rowdy crowd, BHS beat the Brockton Boxers, 3-0 (15-7,17-15, 15-13) and propelled themselves into the South Sectional Finals at Wheaton College, and into the history books.

It was there that the Raiders faced the challenge of the Whalers, with whom they had split their two match-ups during the regular season. A first game loss did not dishearten the Raiders, who worked and pushed and succeeded in winning the next two games 15-12, 15-8, before losing the fourth game 7-15. The match came down to the fifth game, a game so tense that some of the spectators couldn't even watch. The Raiders fell behind 0-6 before coming on strong and taking twelve of the next thirteen points to take a 12-7 lead. The Whalers battled back to a score of 12-13. Barnstable took one more point before falling, 13-15.

Throughout the season, the team's seniors contributed much to the success of this year's volleyball team. Kerry Boetig and Jaimie Heppner's great defensive and offensive play, as well as their smashing serves, made them great go-to players. Aimee Doyle's awesome defense and high percentage at the net made her yet another great player. Because this Raider team will only be losing these three star players, next year is looking good for the younger members of this squad. Heppner was also named an Old Colony League All-Star along with teammates Lina Rackauskas and Lynn Mulkeen. Rackauskas, a junior transfer from Los Angeles, thrilled the Barnstable crowds all season with her sensational spikes which she racked up over the course of the season. Lynn Mulkeen, also a junior, played a key role in the offense with the responsibility of setting up the attacks on the floor.

After the season junior Tiffany Ormon stated, "I think we're the best team in the school."

How's that for Raider pride?

Gridders roll to 7-3 season

O'Neil tears up OCL behind tough senior line

The '92 season was one of great triumph for the Red Raiders, who finished the season with a 7-3 record overall, and 5-3 in the extremely difficult Old Colony League. Barnstable came out flying in the beginning of the season with three straight wins. The Raiders' first game of the season came against Dartmouth, a team who had defeated Barnstable for 21 years straight until Barnstable steamrolled them, 21-0. The defeat of the heavily favored Weymouth Wildcats in the third game of the season was one of the highlights of the season. "The Weymouth game was an important step for the overall program because it showed we had the capabilities of playing with and beating a team considered at the top of Division One statewide," said head coach Spanky Demanche.

After suffering their first defeat to North Quincy, the number one team in the league, the Red Raiders ran off three wins again, including a 26-6 trouncing of a fine Taunton team that coaches and players agreed was the Raiders' best played game of the season. The offense lit up the scoreboard, while a defense that had sputtered in the past held the opposition to one touchdown.

On November 26, Barnstable and Falmouth strapped them on once more, this time in a mudbath to complete one of the more memorable Thanksgiving games of the 104 year-old rivalry. Unfortunately for the Barnstable boys, Falmouth pulled it out with less than one minute to play to upset a group of Red Raiders who left everything they had on the field. "We were disappointed because it will take some time for our seniors to realize that a successful season took place and not to judge it solely on the Falmouth outcome," commented Coach Demanche. "We as a staff were pleased with the sense of community that the team developed over the course of the year."

"We were pleased with the sense of community that the team developed over the course of the year."
— Coach Paul "Spanky" Demanche

It was a community that will remain tightly knit for years to come.

Raider Recollections: Barnstable's potent offense was based around the running of junior tailback Jasen O'Neil, who rushed for over 1,600 yards and scored a league-leading fifteen touchdowns . . . much of the team's success was also due to the enormously powerful senior offensive line. Mike Kennedy, Mike Donovan, Corey (Cheeks) Scrupps, Matt Bunnell, and C. T. (Chow Time) Olander intimidated opposing defensive linemen throughout the season . . . the versatile Raider offense added another dimension to the attack, with mastermind coach Mark Titus at the helm . . . graduating seniors include co-captains Bunnel and Scrupps, Donovan, Chris Driscoll, Olander, Adrian Pena, Kennedy, Mike Swift, Keith Powell, Andy Milk, Dougan Sherwood, Darryl Tamash, Rob Tiramacco, Jim Fell and Chad Triveri. Old Colony League All-Stars included Scrupps at center, O'Neil at tailback and Peter Sullivan at defensive end. Honorable mention went to Bunnel for superior performance on the offensive and defensive line, Justin Cazeault at defensive tackle and Scott Rose for special teams. Players selected to the Cape Cod Times All-Star team included Bunnell, Scrupps and O'Neil on offense, Sullivan, Cazeault and Rose on defense. Honorable mention went to Olander, Joe Kennedy, Sherwood, Driscoll and John Hill. Scrupps was also selected to play in the North-South Shriners Football All-Star Classic in June.

Cheerleaders pep up fall and winter sports

This year's squad went to cheerleading camp at Emmanuel College for four days to help prepare for this fall season. There they learned new cheers and mounts. Lindsey Smith won the "dance-off" competition, while the Raider team took home the "most improved" trophy and many superior and excellent ribbons.

Practice began in August. Besides cheering at home and away football games the girls decorate their football players' lockers and the school with various posters to get everyone excited about the upcoming game. They also perform at pep rallies.

Coach Phoebe Weston would like to thank Captains Lisa Fortenberry, Heather McEachen and Erin Neally for their spirited and energetic leadership. Other seniors include Bonnie Dickens, Carrie McCutcheon, Kristen Youlden and Jenn White. To next year's squad Mrs. Weston wishes the very best.

In contrast to the senior-dominated fall team, the BHS winter cheerleading squad, led by co-captains Erin Neally and Heather McEachen, is a young squad. What they lack in experience they make up for in energy, talent and enthusiasm. The girls cheered at all home games for both the boys and girls basketball teams. Coach Phoebe Weston deserves a large thank you for all her time spent with the girls. The cheerleaders made the cold of the winter disappear with the warmth of their enthusiasm and the electricity of their routines.

Raider hoopers post best season since '88

Raiders take Cape Cod Classic Slam D-Y in tourney

The 1993 boys basketball team ran up a 13-8 overall record and finished 11-6, good for place in the Old Colony League. The team was led by a strong group of seniors: co-captains Mike Kennedy and Jon Way, big man Jason Miller and sixth man Chad Triveri. "Our team has potential for an explosive offense, way above any team in our league, simply because any one of the starting five could score 25 points or more on any given night," said Kennedy.

An early season highlight came when the Raiders traveled to Sandwich to play Falmouth in the finals of the Cape Cod Classic. The game swayed back and forth with both teams playing with lots of inspiration. Falmouth grabbed the lead early in the second half, but a strong Barnstable comeback led by tourney MVP Kennedy was too much for the Clippers to handle, and the Raiders came out on top 50-48.

Over the course of the season, several players keyed Raider victories. Kennedy played with fire in his eyes and a 100 percent effort every night. His leadership, power moves to the basket and rebounding prowess made him a complete player.

Point guard Way controlled the court for the Raiders and the ever-present threat of his deadly three point shot broke down opposing defenses. He displayed excellent court sense and left many opponents baffled with his quick, no-look passes and steals.

Six-foot seven center Miller electrified the crowd and left them in awe of his monster swats and rim-shaking dunks. Miller, a recent transfer, was a welcome addition to the Raiders. He led the team in blocked shots, and his thundering dunk late in the game turned the tide in the season's most thrilling win.

Co-captains Jon Way and Mike Kennedy flank senior stars Chad Triveri and Jason Miller.

"If they have the same commitment to all other areas of their lives, and work as hard as they have during this season, they are sure to find success in whatever they do."

— Coach Mark Sullivan

Utilityman Chad Triveri came off the bench to give the Raiders added scoring punch and strong defense. He scored and rebounded on the inside, but could pop outside for the quick three-pointer as well.

All that skill and effort paid off for the Raiders as they finished with a flurry to nail down third place in the league and their first home tournament game in several years.

That game took place in front of a full house at the BHS gym as the Red Raiders pulled out a hard fought, nip and tuck battle with their ex-rival D-Y Dolphins, 72-64. It was back and forth throughout the game; it looked as though either team could pull out the victory. That is until D-Y pulled ahead 57-54 and had all the momentum in their favor with eight minutes to go in the game. The Raiders couldn't get anything going until Mike Kennedy drove hard to the hoop and dished off to 6-7 Jason Miller for a monster dunk that electrified the spirits of the Raider squad and its fans. The home team then went on a 17- run to put the game away and propel the Raiders into the second round, against New Bedford. Although the Raiders unfortunately couldn't handle the level of play of the Whalers and eventually lost to the eventual Southern Mass champions, their 92-93 campaign will not soon be forgotten.

A strong group of underclassmen led by junior Mike Scioletti and sophomore Mickey Fein should continue to make Barnstable a force to be reckoned with next season. Asked for his evaluation, Coach Mark Sullivan sounded proud of his troops: "If they have the same commitment to all other areas of their lives and work as hard as they have during this season, they are sure to find success in whatever they do," the Raider mentor commented.

Gymnasts snare OCL title with fast finish

Raiders pay back rivals on way to sectionals

"This year's team was full of team spirit. They have stuck together through all trials and errors. The team has had a very strong and successful year," said gymnastic coach Christine Slack about her 1992-1993 team. And well she should, for the girls had a record of 8-4, placing them first in the Old Colony League.

Gymnastics, a complex sport, is based on individual as well as team performance. It is composed of four events: vault, uneven bars, beam and floor exercises. A gymnast is scored by height and distance in the vault. The judge uses the best of two attempts for a score. On the uneven bars the gymnast must perform flowingly despite a degree of difficulty. The beam is an event combining balance and grace, which cannot exceed a minute and a half. The floor exercise is a time for the gymnast to show her own personality through dance, acrobatics and personal artistic ability. The routine must be done to music, and include three tumbling passes. Like the beam, the floor exercises cannot be longer than a minute and a half.

All routines are based on a score of 10.00. Each move is worth an A, B, C or D, with "D" the most difficult, "A" the least. Each mistake subtracts a certain number of points off your potential score.

Barnstable's team this year had only one senior, Brenda Anderton, who served as captain. She felt being the only senior was "hard, because no one was from my grade, but easy because I grew up with these girls."

Coach Slack said that having only one senior was actually a strong point. "We will only be losing one strong competitor to the graduating class," she said with a smile.

Captain — Brenda Anderton

"A strong competitor is someone who comes into every meet wanting better performances of themselves and the team . . . Everyone on our team is a strong competitor."

— Coach Christine Slack

Coach Slack, who served as an assistant last year, turned in an inspirational first-year performance. Anderton noted her importance to the team: "Coach Slack really helps us prepare and get psyched to win."

What were some of this year's highlights? According to Anderton, revenge was sweet in one instance: "Last year we tied Nantucket, but their coach complained and they won. This year we beat them bad."

"The Bridgewater-Raynham meet was scary going in, because we knew they were good . . . but it made us work harder," Anderton admitted. The girls managed to pull off the win.

When asked who she thought were the Raiders' toughest competitors, Coach Slack replied, "To me a strong competitor is someone who comes into every meet wanting better scores and performances of themselves and the team. With that definition everyone on our team is a strong competitor." The coach summed up her feelings when she said, "I admire them all."

Brenda also credited teammate Chrissy McCutcheon as a key to the Raiders' success. "She's only a junior and she's finally getting recognized. I hope schools notice her more."

It seems as if the entire team will be noticed more after this year's performance. A late season surge saw the Raiders run off five wins in a row and squeak into the state tournament after Plymouth was ruled ineligible. However, the timing couldn't have been worse, as the sectionals began on the first weekend of February break. The Raiders had to go into their biggest competition of the year minus vacationing gymnasts Lindsay Smith, Page Pena and Kris Scarpato in addition to team leader Anderton.

Still, solid performances from McCutcheon and classmate Caitlin Dillon and heroic fill-ins by freshmen Mary Myrna and Adrian Bonaparte enabled the Raiders to hold their heads high.

Quite a year for a young team and a rookie coach!

Lady hoopers make it back to the tourney

Hansen and McIntyre lead Raiders in comeback season

Why did the 1992-93 Raider girls perform so much better on the basketball court than last year's team? "We had a lot more dedication this year," said senior co-captain Barbara Becker. "We really played as a team." THe BHS girls basketball team came out of the regular season with a 10-8 record. That's quite an improvement over last year's total of 5-15. Not only did they double their wins from last year, but they also saw their first tournament action since the 1986-87 team. The Raiders made it to the first round of the Girls Division 1 State Basketball Tournament before losing to Needham, 64-45.

Coach Keith Clarke was very pleased with his team's performance this season. "We have a small team, but every game ether Dawan (Cohan) or Alissa (Antkowiak) has been in double figures in rebounds. Tania (McIntyre) and Amie (Hansen) both are OCL All-Stars. I expected big things from them, and they came through." McIntyre was the second highest scorer in the Old Colony League, and Hansen was eighth.

Dawn Cohan

"We've come a long way. We've gotten a lot more intense and learned how to play . . . for the benefit of the team."
— Co-captain Aime Hansen

Amie Hansen, also a co-captain, noted the newfound teamwork in girls hoop. "We've come a long way. We've gotten a lot more intense and learned how to play with each other for the benefit of the team."

To what does Dawn Cohan, the third co-captain, attribute the success of this season's team? "Everyone's skills have improved," she says. "The guards have improved in passing and dribbling. The forwards have improved in rebounding. I've had to play a lot more aggressively this year than in the past."

From ten games under .500 to a berth in the tournament. Not many teams in BHS history can boast of that kind of turnaround.

Hockey struggles through rebuilding year

Northup's net work and Bosco tie spice up season

This year's Red Raiders ice hockey team had a record of 6-9-3 (4-6-2 in the OCL) in what was an up and down season. The team is still rebuilding in the wake of the 1991 state championship team. The lack of experienced varsity players made a difficult task of piling up wins in the tough Old Colony League, and kept the Raiders out of the state tournament for the first time in 11 years.

The Raiders' leaders in ability and experience were senior co-captains Mark MacAllister and Jason Spinney. The only other two seniors on the squad were John Butler and Sean Hurley. All four worked hard and helped Coach Melchiono to develop the team's younger players for the future. Although the team had a little bit of trouble putting the puck in the net, the defense was strong, led by Cape Cod's premier netminder, junior Mark Northup. "This year's team is a young, inexperienced and hard working club that will continue to get better," said MacAllister.

The highlight of the season was the 2-2 tie of perennial power Don Bosco at the Kennedy Rink in Hyannis. The boys from Boston came to the Cape ranked fourth in the state and looking to blow out the unheralded Raider squad. Soon enough, those thoughts were destroyed as the Raiders came out flying and scored the first goal of the game. The scoring then alternated between squads and it looked like the upset was ours until Bosco was finally able to beat Northup, though only after a plethora of great saves, for the tying goal.

The season's next to last game may have been a good omen for next year. The Raiders blew past Quincy 5-3 in their biggest offensive output of the year.

"Our team was a hard working, very competitive club that will continue to get better. I am as pleased to work with them as with any other team I have ever coached. Even though the wins weren't there, I am not disappointed," said veteran hockey coach Pete Melchiono.

With a year of experience under its belt, the Raider hockey team may make some big noise next year.

Aimeé:

It seems like only yesterday that we were saying "Be your own person", to that beautiful little girl with the warm and happy smile as we dropped her off at Centerville Elementary School. Those simple words ring back at us today every time we think about the special person you've become. We couldn't be more proud of who you are and what you've accomplished. You have worked hard in school, become a fine athlete, and have had fun along the way!

Many thanks to those special people who've influenced you. We are very grateful.

Thanks for always letting us be a part of evrything. We wouldn't have missed it for the world.

Love,
Mom and Dad

Aimeé

I'm very lucky to have you as my sister and my friend. I believe in you and I love you very much! I'll always be here for you. Hold your head high and never lose your beautiful smile!

Love always
Your big sister,
Melissa

It's serious business.

It must be measured in

It is rarely accidental and

At times it's felt like four incredibly long years —
Through it all we've shed
many tears,
But the happy memories
